

The Diocese of East Anglia's Certificate in Catholic Studies (DCCS).

The Margaret Beaufort Institute of Theology (MBIT) was commissioned by the Right Revd Alan Hopes (Emeritus Bishop of East Anglia) to create a foundation course introducing people to the core themes of the Catholic Certificate in Religious Studies. The course was devised and delivered by members of the MBIT team via in-person and online sessions. It has been successfully used with teachers new to working in Catholic Schools and with Parish Groups. For those who took part, it has opened up different aspects of the Catholic Faith for them, leading several to further study.

This latest version of the DCCS is an exciting new development, and aims to enable a wider audience to take part and learn. It is hoped that it will also encourage people to study other courses and become a way of supporting ongoing spiritual development. The course is available via the RCDEA Training app, existing diocesan partner apps and can be delivered through new custom apps for other dioceses.

Each module takes approximately an hour and a half to complete. Reflection sections, quizzes and the possibility of gaining a certificate upon completion of the course help keep learners engaged. The course also aims to contribute to and support the underpinning knowledge required to deliver the Religious Education Directory for Catholic Schools.

The online format of the DCCS makes it flexible and affordable, as the more staff members you licence the less each costs.
